

Alyssa Sloneker is a Stoa alumnus who currently attends John Brown University, working towards degrees in History and Spanish. She is the president of the History Society and currently coaches both speech and debate for her local club, Surgamus. She enjoys seeing the next generation of Stoa competitors reap the rewards of their hard work and fall in love with this sport just as much as she had in her competition days.